AU does have international accreditation with ASIC as premier educational institution which accredits online educational bodies. AU is listed on the on their site as an accredited program. Check out ASIC here. Akamai University is not accredited by an accrediting agency recognized by the United States Secretary of Education at this time since as an online university we were not eligible to apply. Currently however there has been additions to recognizing online education in the USA. The Board is currently investigating adding US accreditation if eligible.

Note: In the United States, some licensing authorities require accredited degrees as the basis for eligibility for licensing and some employers may require an accredited degree as a basis for eligibility for employment.

• I understand that the Akamai University does not discriminate based on race or color, gender, national or ethnic origin or sexual orientation related to all rights, privileges, programs, and activities generally accorded and made available to applicants or students at the school.

- I understand that the University gives preference in Admission to those students with qualifying life experiences, additional qualifying credentials of continuing education who demonstrate a high potential for success in completing the desired program through self-motivated study. Admission evaluations focus upon the duration, nature and content of prior experience and training and the value of the experience in relation to the degree objectives.

- I also understand there is opportunity to count qualify professional courses, licenses, acceptable work experience that documents equivalents to acceptable transfer courses, experiences and or acceptable criteria. AU welcomes highly motivated, success oriented, innovative self-empowered thinkers.

Entry Requirements

Admittance to any Akamai University degree program is based upon an assumption that you have the background (attributes and resources) to achieve the objectives of your selected program. To assure a high likelihood for your success in the desired program, we have established a number of entry requirements to guide the Admission Office in the review of your application materials.

Program Prerequisites

The University requires that you to have completed the appropriate preparatory degree (or coursework) and specific subject matter competencies prior to enrollment. These foundational competencies assure the University that you have the necessary understandings, skills and competencies for successful completion of advanced studies. Your degree program will also have professional prerequisites requiring a minimum number of years of progressively more responsible career experience (or specific licensing). These professional requirements assure the University you can approach the subject matter in a mature manner and effectively apply new learning within real world settings. You must demonstrate you have completed these foundational elements by submission of official college transcripts (or other documentation) for Office of Admission review or compete an additional transfer of credit equivalents from life experiences.

Bachelor's Entry Requirements
For acceptance to the Bachelor's program, you should have completed the secondary program, have at least two full years or equivalent in postsecondary studies and training, and at least two years of meaningful career experience.

Master's Entry Requirements
For acceptance to the Master's program, you should have completed a recognized baccalaureate degree in an appropriate field of study and have several years of career-related experience.

Doctoral Entry Requirements
As a prerequisite for acceptance to the Doctoral program, you should have completed a recognized Master's degree in an appropriate field of study and have several years of progressively more responsible professional experience.

Further Admission Requirements
Given the fully external nature of our degrees, it is essential that you demonstrate access to the appropriate local and online libraries, learning resources and field study facilities. You must provide English language translations of all documents and, if necessary, a recognized educational credential evaluation of international academic credits earned. As part of the admission process, you must initiate at least one telephone or email contact with an Akamai administrator or senior faculty member in your desired field of study. The following additional requirements help the Admission Committee better understand your potential for success in the desired program, of study.

English Language Competencies
As an applicant, you must clearly demonstrate proficiency in written and verbal English language communication skills according to American collegiate standards. If you are an international student with English as a second language, you should submit samples of your best written work (English) or submit a record of a recent TOEFL examination with a 550 score or above.

Access to Learning Resources
You must provide assurance that you can successfully access required learning resources including texts, journals, periodicals, databases, video- and audiotapes, online resources, relevant reference materials, and manuals of effective research and writing.

Access to Outside Resources
You must demonstrate you have access to essential external resources that provide avenues for practical application of learning such as field study sites with essential facilities, equipment and qualified personnel. You are also expected to identify enrichment activities that supplement your program such as seminars, conferences, workshops and retreats and membership in professional associations and societies.

Access to Educational Technology
You must verify that you have access to a computer, email and Internet and other necessary means of communication for the duration of your program, such as telephone and fax. No student is admitted without such assurance.

The Admission Process

Our Admission process is designed to carefully review your career background and training and prior college achievements. Your supportive information and documents must demonstrate you have achieved the minimum entry requirements for the desired degree and that you satisfy certain general expectations of the University. If you show a strong likelihood for success in your desired program, upon review of a completed application package, you are assured acceptance.
